DETAILED ACTION

The IDS received 8/26/2004, 10/13/2004, the preliminary amendment received 8/26/2004 have been entered.

Election

Applicant's election of Group I, claims 1-34, 44-48 in the reply filed on 11/13/2006 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)). Applicant's cancellation of claims 35-43 in the reply filed on 11/13/2006 is also acknowledged.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claims 1-34, 44-48 are presented for examination on the merits.

Specification

The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

The following title is suggested: Mycoplasma detecting methods and materials.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 1657

Claims 1-34, 44-48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 1-3 and all occurrences, it is not clear what (A) and (B) mean? It is not clear that all (A)s indicate the measurement of control sample and all (B)s indicate the measurement of test sample.

In claim 8, lines 2 and 4, it is not clear what "obtention" means.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-34, 44-48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combination of Kahane et al. (FEMS Microbiology Letters 1978;3:143-145) in view of Ito et al. (Analytical Sciences 2003;19:105-109).

Kahane teaches a mycoplasma acetate kinase activity assay comprises detecting/measuring the appearance/disappearance of one or more of the substrates/products of the reactions as claimed in claim 3 after osmotically lysis (page 143, Materials and Methods and Results and Discussion, 1st and 2nd paragraph), and that acetate kinase is present in mycoplasma (page 143 end of 1st paragraph and page 145, lines 1-7).

Art Unit: 1657

Kahane does not teach the detection of mycoplasma in cell culture and the assay reaction is a bioluminescent reaction

Ito teaches a bioluminescent measurement of acetate kinase (Title and abstract).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the method of Kahane by using Ito's bioluminescent method because both methods teach acetate kinase assays. One would have been motivated to make the modification because Kahane et al. specifically described the acetate kinase assay and Ito et al. teach the advantages of the bioluminescent method, and would reasonably have expected success in view of Ito's teaching that no interference in the measurement of the acetate kinase and with good sensitivity when using their bioluminescent method (page 107, 1st full paragraph). The choice of detecting mycoplasma in cell culture using enzyme activity ratio of testing sample over control sample, the adjustment of particular conventional working conditions (e.g., use of detergent, incubation time period for the reaction, choice of cell lines) is deemed merely a matter of judicious selection and routine optimization which is well within the purview of the skilled artisan having the cited reference before him/her.

From the teachings of the references, it is apparent that one of ordinary skill in the art would have had a reasonable expectation of success in producing the claimed invention. Therefore, the invention as a whole was prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, as evidenced by the references, especially in the absence of evidence to the contrary.
